

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for allowing advertisements created for one type of media, such as newspapers and magazines, to be used on Web sites and served or downloaded to users for viewing as well as for allowing branding components to be displayed in addition to advertisements.